Trade union membership over time

Of the 12.1 million employees in August 2024, 1.6 million (13.1%) were a member of a trade union in their main job, which is an increase from August 2022 (12.5%). This is the first increase in the rate of trade union membership since 2011.

Trade union membership has generally declined since 1992. From 1992 to 2024, the proportion of employees who were trade union members has fallen from 40% to 13% (from 43% to 12% for men and 35% to 14% for women).

Trade union membership was more common amongst full-time employees (14%) than part-time employees (11%).

Trade union membership tends to increase with age. In August 2024 only 3.7% of employees aged 15-19 years and 7.3% aged 20-24 were trade union members. This increased to 21% for employees aged 60-64 and 20% for employees aged 55-59 and 65-69.
